Elmira Supervisor Joyce Carr Named President of School Administrators Association of New York State

Elmira, NY, November 8, 2017 — Joyce A. Carr, supervisor of special education and student support services in the Elmira City School District, was named president of the School Administrators Association of New York State at its 2017 annual conference.

Carr, who obtained her bachelor's degree in special education from Slippery Rock University and her master's from SUNY Cortland, began her career as an assistant middle school principal and Committee on Special Education chair in the Owego Appalachian School District.

She has been with the Elmira City School District for 14 years and is also an adjunct professor at Elmira College.

Carr has been an active member of the School Administrators Association for many years and will serve as president for one year.
