

The Business Department at Elmira High School is staffed by Shelley Bailey, Noreen Dieg and Cheryl Sweeney. Students are provided the most relevant curriculum including rigorous content, updated technology and extensive college and career readiness preparation. Many of the courses provide students with more than just knowledge and skills including the opportunity to earn ACE credits and the National Career Readiness Certification through the Work Keys assessments. Job shadow and internship opportunities are also available for students, enabling them to make more informed career choices.

Furthermore, students participate in the operation of the School Store through the use of a Point of Sale (POS) system providing experience in the latest retail technology. The Business department also leads an active Future Business Leaders of America (FBLA) chapter that competes yearly at the New York State Spring Leadership Conference in Rochester, NY and has had students qualify for national competitions for the last five years.
